

December 2017

Urgent Communiqué

Agent Brundle passes you a note. You know it's important orders from HQ. To protect the message from unauthorized eyes, he has encrypted it with a cryptogram cipher where every unique letter in the note is changed into another unique letter. Subsequent instances of each letter will retain the same transformation. He's left some images below to remind you how to decrypt it.

PZFAPL LA LJZ WZKPZL CRWZ

